

Possession drill with one football – each team also has a ‘handball’

1

LEARNING UNIT
Small-group technique/tactics.

PHASE
Skills acquisition.

CONTENT
Controlling the ball, passing and dribbling.
Developing peripheral vision of the surrounding area. Developing perceptive and decision-making skills.

OBJECTIVES
To improve on basic technical and tactical aspects, developing general visual perception skills and learning to make simple decisions in order to keep possession.

NUMBER OF PLAYERS
10-12.

EQUIPMENT
Balls and bibs.

DRILL DESCRIPTION

- Players are divided evenly into two teams. If there is an odd number of players, they are split into two teams plus an attacking ‘joker’.
- The area in which possession must be kept is marked out according to the number of players and the desired level of difficulty.
- Players must keep possession of the ball, playing with only one or two touches within the marked area. In addition, each team has a ‘handball’ which they can pass to each other (with their hands).
- The player in each team who has the ‘handball’ cannot take part in attacking or defensive moves and is not allowed to move freely to change position (they are only allowed to take three steps). The ‘handball’ must not fall to the ground (if it does, this is penalised by loss of the ball or by the award of a penalty/restart).

2v2 in each half of the court, with scope to change to a 3v2

LEARNING UNIT
Small-group technique/tactics.

PHASE
Skills acquisition/proficiency.

CONTENT
Small-group technical/tactical options. Team technical/tactical options. Tactical attacking concepts. Introduction to scenarios where a team outnumbers or is outnumbered by the opposition.

OBJECTIVES
To improve small-group technical/tactical options for retaining the ball, developing play and finishing on goal. To improve core technical/tactical concepts when outnumbering or being outnumbered in a 3v2 or a 2v1.

NUMBER OF PLAYERS
8 plus goalkeepers.

EQUIPMENT
Balls and bibs.

DRILL DESCRIPTION

- Drills using a real game situation; 4v4 plus goalkeepers, with a 2v2 positioned in each half of the court. The main rule is that players cannot cross the halfway line from either side of the court.
- After passing the ball into the attacking half of the court, the player that has made the pass may move onto that side of the court. When this happens, the player who has switched, or either of the other two attacking players, can only return to the defensive half of the court when they have scored a goal, so that if they do not score when outnumbering the opposition, they will be outnumbered 2v1 in their defensive half.

VARIATIONS

- Switching half is only allowed for a limited time (e.g. five seconds).
- The player that does not play the pass moves into the attacking half of the court.
- A player is allowed to move into the attacking half by carrying the ball over the halfway line.

Drill with equal/inferior/superior numbers, scoring in two goals

LEARNING UNIT
Small-group technique/tactics.

PHASE
Skills acquisition.

CONTENT
Core technical/tactical concepts. Finishing on goal. Peripheral vision of surroundings.

Situations involving numerical advantages/disadvantages. Execution speed when finishing on goal. Perception and decision-making.

OBJECTIVES
To improve decision-making when presented with opportunities to finish moves quickly and increase speed/accuracy in the final third.

NUMBER OF PLAYERS
10 plus goalkeepers.

EQUIPMENT
Balls and bibs.

DRILL DESCRIPTION

- Executing a drill on a 20x20m court with 4v4 plus goalkeepers and one server per team.
- The players line up next to each other, one team on each side, with their respective servers on the opposite side. Additional players from each team enter the court one at a time. The server may serve the ball at any moment when a team-mate comes on.
- Once the ball is in play, nobody else can enter the court until the ball is out of play or a goal is scored. The server may pass the ball to any player who is already on, or about to enter, the court.
- The situations between the two sides are: 1vGK, 1v1, 2v1, 2v2, 3v2, 3v3, 4v3 and 4v4. The players can score in either of the goals at any time, and can change direction when they wish. After reaching 4v4, the sequence begins again, with the order in which players enter the court changing.

Zonal possession drill with 2v2, with scope to change to a 3v2

Small-group technique/tactics.

PHASE
Skills acquisition.

CONTENT
Controlling the ball, passing and dribbling. Peripheral vision of the surrounding area. Opening up/occupying/using space. Perception and decision-making.

OBJECTIVES
To improve basic core technical/tactical concepts needed to maintain possession and provide the player in possession with support at all times.

12.

EQUIPMENT
Balls, bibs and cones.

DRILL DESCRIPTION

- The court is divided into three equal areas by two horizontal lines situated 13.3m from each goal line. Players are divided into two teams of six, with a 2v2 situation in each area of play.
- The objective is for the six players on one team to keep possession of the ball between them. A player from any zone adjacent to the zone in which the ball is located may switch zone to create a 3v2 advantage for their team for a period of four seconds. Before those four seconds are up, any player that ventures into an off-limits zone must move out of it.
- The game is played with two touches and the ball can be played into any free space.
